DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. Regarding claims 17 and 18, it appears that the applicant has sufficiently overcome the 112, 2nd paragraph rejection from the previous office action. However, it appears that the newly added limitations fail to sufficiently overcome the prior art. Please see the new grounds of rejection presented for claims 17 and 18 presented below.

Claim Objections

2. Claims 17, 21, and 22 are objected to because of the following informalities:
- Regarding claim 17, applicant recites the limitation of using the operation member to move the attendant information “along to one of upper, lower, left and right edges”. This appears to be a typographical error and that the applicant meant to use the phrase – to one of upper, lower, left and right edges –, as was done in claim 18.
 - As for claims 21 and 22, applicant recites the limitation of using the operation member to move the attendant information “along to one of upper, lower, left and right edges”. This appears to be a typographical error and that the applicant meant to use the phrase – along one of upper, lower, left and right edges –.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 12, 14, 17, and 18, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Silverbrook (U.S. Patent No. 6,597,817) in view of Anderson (U.S. Patent No. 6,275,260).

5. Regarding claim 12, Silverbrook discloses a digital camera, which includes a printer that is capable of printing image data along with text. The camera is utilized to overlay image data with information such as a date and location (col. 3, lines 8-10) and therefore would inherently include a means for synthesizing the image data with the additional information. Furthermore, Silverbrook discloses a printer for printing the image data. As disclosed in column 3, lines 17-25, Silverbrook discloses that based upon a detected orientation the additional information which is overlaid upon the image is positioned in a good position. See Figure 1. In this case the predetermined operation causing rotation of the additional information would be taking an image in a portrait or landscape mode.

However, Silverbrook fails to disclose a manual operation member or a controlling means that sets the position of the attendant information on one of upper, lower, left and right edges of the image data and changes the orientation of the attendant information in accordance with the set position. Anderson, on the other hand teaches the use of a four-way controller (409) for positioning the stamp along one of an upper, lower, left, and right edge of the image data.

Art Unit: 2612

Additionally, as disclosed in column 8, lines 27-40, the positioning of the stamp is performed correctly for a plurality of image orientations. Therefore, no matter what the orientation of the image is, the user can select a position of the stamp and the orientation of the stamp will be translated correctly. The orientation is changed by the changing means in accordance with the set position since the orientation is automatically changed based on the orientation of the image. For every set position the orientation is changed. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to position the attendant information in a desired position while also changing the orientation so that the location of the attendant information is performed so that the user can easily view it.

6. Regarding claim 12, Anderson discloses in Figures 9A and 9B plurality of different combination of positions and orientations.

7. Claim 18 is considered substantively equivalent to claim 17. Please see the discussion of claim 17 on the preceding pages.

8. Claim 14 is considered substantively equivalent to claim 12. Please see the discussion of claim 12 above.

Allowable Subject Matter

9. Claims 21 and 22 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

10. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

Art Unit: 2612

Regarding claims 21 and 22, the primary reason for indication of allowable subject matter is that the prior art fails to teach or reasonably suggest shifting the position of the attendant information along the one of the upper, lower, left, and right edges in accordance with the user's operation of that one of the four operation sections, which corresponds to the one of the upper, lower, left and right edges.

11. Claims 2, 5, 7, 10, 15, 16, 19, and 20 are allowed.

12. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Regarding claims 15, 16, 19, and 20, the primary reason for allowance is that the prior art fails to teach or reasonably suggest shifting the position of the attendant information along the one of the upper, lower, left, and right edges in accordance with the user's operation of that one of the four operation sections, which corresponds to the one of the upper, lower, left and right edges.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
